Music in the Mass: Why Do We Sing?

On a recent road trip with a close friend, we started talking about the music she remembered from Mass growing up. I wasn't sure how the conversation would go; as a young adult this friend had vehemently turned against her Catholic upbringing. But all of her anger faded away as I sang a few notes of "Sing a New Song" and "Christ Be Our Light," and she picked up and sang refrains that she hadn't heard in twenty years. She spoke to me of the joy that she felt in singing these pieces as a child, and how this music had connected her to the liturgy itself.

This connection is precisely why we sing in church. In fact, getting the congregation to sing was one of the most important practical aims of Vatican II, as the fulfillment of our call to "full, conscious, and active participation" in the liturgy:

In the restoration and promotion of the sacred liturgy, this full and active participation by all the people is the aim to be considered before all else. For it is the primary and indispensable source from which the faithful are to derive the true Christian spirit. ... (Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy, §14)

The council recognized that it was not enough to simply be present in the church building while the priest and choir intoned the Mass. Rather, as we hear in the Letter of James this weekend, we must "be doers of the word and not hearers only" (1:22)—we must be full, active, conscious participants in the Mass if we are to "humbly welcome the word" that has been implanted in us (1:21).

Music is Our Communal Prayer

But why singing? The USCCB's instruction on music in the liturgy opens with the suggestion that this "word" implanted in us is really a song:

God has bestowed upon his people the gift of song. God dwells within each human person, in the place where music takes its source. Indeed, God, the giver of song, is present whenever his people sing his praises. (Sing to the Lord: Music in Divine Worship, §1)

As important as words themselves are, our tradition affirms that the artistic expression of language holds a still higher place: "Music does what words alone cannot do. It is capable of expressing a dimension of meaning and feeling that words alone cannot convey." (Sing to the Lord, §124). In song we bring word and music together, just as the members of our deaf community elevate the signed word through artistic gesture, and in both ways we penetrate more deeply into the divine source of our prayer. As the ancient proverb states, "To sing is to pray twice."

This then is the heart of the matter: song is our communal Christian prayer. What my friend experienced anew in singing "One Bread, One Body" together in the car was the "true Christian spirit" which dwells within all of us, and through which we come to know God, both in ourselves and in the Mass. Our Gospel reading warns us, in the words of Isaiah, about those who honor God with their lips while their hearts are far away—"in vain do they worship me," says our Lord (Matthew 15:8-9, quoting Isaiah 29:13). But when we elevate our words to song, we draw on that ever-flowing fountain welling deep within us where God dwells, and where all true prayer has its source.

I invite you all to consider how you can honor God with your own song in the Mass, either by singing in the assembly or by engaging in our music ministries here at Our Lady of the Lake. Look on page 4 for details about the different music offerings here in the parish—all are invited to be doers of the word!
